Shopped: Amrish Patel's store was raided by police after a complaint about a joke involving sharia law DeadlinepixEP19649

BEYOND A JOKE

To the hundreds of customers who pass through his doors every day, Amrish Patel's humorous handwritten signs in his shop have brought smiles and laughter for the past eight years.

Placed in the front window of the newsagents in High Street, the cards make lighthearted reference to current affairs and topical events.

But one disgruntled shopper took exception to a jibe about sharia law which was written after the Archbishop of Canterbury's clumsy remarks on the controversial subject, and police officers swooped on the tiny store to question Mr Patel.

They then confiscated his signs and told him he could be charged under race hate laws.

"They took all of his cards away as evidence and officers returned to talk to him at least another three times after," a shopper said. "It's absolutely ridiculous. One single complaint has been made and the police act as if a major crime has taken place."

The offending card was a mock advert which said wives who wanted to treat their partner for Valentine's Day could "stone them with a half price discount".

It is thought the complainant, a white male in his 50s, misinterpreted the sign and believed Mr Patel was planning to introduce sharia law into his shop. Angered by the sign, he went to the police and made an official complaint.

Mr Patel, a British Hindu, has received an overwhelming amount of support from customers and well-wishers who have defended his actions.

But the father-of-two from Ewell has told customers he is nervous about writing or displaying signs in the future for fear of falling foul of the law once more.

"He says that he is worried about what could happen," another customer said. "The police haven't said to him that it is unlikely anything could happen and as a result he's genuinely worried."

Another regular shopper, John Tennen, said he was stunned when he had found out what had happened.

"If anyone is not a racist it's him," he said. "He's well known and very well liked, he's a character. My wife and I feel much happier once we've been in there."

A police spokesman said: "Surrey police attended a business address in High Street, Epsom, after receiving a complaint from a member of the public regarding signs displayed in the window of the business. The complainant said he found the signs to be offensive and wanted them removed."

"Epsom police officers spoke to the owners of the business who were happy to remove the signs."

"They told officers the signs were not intended to cause offence and were simply a light hearted take on current affairs and said this was something they had been doing for many years without any problems. The matter is now closed and the newsagent is not being investigated by Surrey police."

The 'Angel of Death' quits

by HELEN CRANE

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

Controversial health executive Ruth Harrison, nicknamed the Angel of Death, has resigned from her job masterminding changes in maternity and paediatric services at Epsom and St Helier Hospitals.

She stepped down just days after the Epsom Guardian revealed her track record in the NHS. Ms Harrison was appointed to the post through an agency hired by Epsom and St Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust.

Durrow, which will be paid £52,000 for its services, will remain in charge of the review.

Ms Harrison was described as the Angel of Death by Paul Goodman MP for Wycombe, Buckinghamshire, for her role in reducing healthcare in Buckinghamshire and, before that, in Kidderminster where an independent MP Dr Richard Taylor was voted in on an anti-cuts platform.

She resigned from her £130,000 a year chief executive's job and received a £140,000 payoff when she left the Buckinghamshire Hospitals NHS Trust in 2006, as a damning report was published into 33 deaths from C diff, a highly infectious and dangerous stomach bug, at Stoke Mandeville Hospital.

She said at the time that she had left the trust to take up an MSc at London University.

She was employed by Durrow to take charge of the review that could lead to the closure of full maternity services and in patient paediatric services at Epsom.

The agency was engaged by a consortium of the Epsom and St Helier Trust, Surrey Primary Care Trust (PCT) and Sutton and Merton PCT.

On Monday, a spokesman for Epsom and St Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust said: "We can confirm that Ms Harrison has decided to stand down."

"She made the decision after press reports linking her previous employment in Buck-

Resignation: Ruth Harrison's track record was revealed inghamshire to the review at Epsom and St Helier."

Epsom MP Chris Grayling said: "It was an extraordinary appointment in the first place."

"It is a spectacular own goal by the trust and completely undermines the confidence in the review before it even starts."

Geoff Martin, campaign head of campaign group Health Emergency, said: "There are serious questions on why they are spending £52,000 on consultants when they have so many managers already. It is money that should go to patient care."

Ms Harrison's replacement will be Nick Relph, the former chief executive of Thames Valley Strategic Health Authority.

Pandora's boxes brought nothing but good luck to students at Rosebery School who are on their way to the top of the commercial tree.

Students at the Epsom school set up a company called Pandora to sell personalised glassware and handmade boxes, many of them made from recycled materials.

Pandora was among three companies which won a competition run by The Mall Ashley and Make Your Mark, a national campaign to promote enterprise.

Their prize was to get a chance to trade free of charge from The Mall for two weeks and on Monday they opened up for business

Residents with ideas for a project or existing scheme which could benefit from the money should contact their local councillor.

Police and council officers involved in the operation

Estate car crackdown

Twelve abandoned or untaxed cars were removed from the Longmead estate in Epsom in a drive to stop antisocial parking and illegal use of cars.

The clearance, which took place on Wednesday, February 20, came about as a result of meetings with residents on the Longmead Estate.

Councillor Mike Richardson, chairman of the council's environment committee, said: "It was a successful operation for all involved. A total of 12 cars were removed from the highway on the Longmead estate either by their owners or the council."

A change is on the cards

Protesting pensioners have forced a change in the new concessionary bus passes to be introduced in April.

Councils were flooded with complaints from bus pass holders that the new passes will not allow them to travel free of charge until 9.30am instead of 9am, the current start time.

After pressure from pass holders, changes to the scheme were announced on Monday.

Now some Surrey residents will be able to hop on a bus at the earlier time - provided they live in the areas covered by the new deal, Epsom and Ewell, Mole Valley, Woking and Elmbridge.

by HELEN CRANE

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

It brings the four areas in Surrey in line with the time bus passes issued in the London area are valid but will be out of step with the rest of the county. The new passes mean holders will be able to travel for free anywhere in England but there will be confusion over what time they are valid - 9am or 9.30am - depending on the deal negotiated by individual councils.

Leader of Mole Valley District Council, Councillor Tim Hall, said: "We have always opposed the introduction of con-cessionary fares for 9.30 am. Recently the London metropolitan boroughs introduced their concessionary fares from 9am and so we decided to go back to Surrey County Council and its public transport division.

"I am pleased to announce we have successfully managed to negotiate a Mole Valley extension to all concessionary fares so that they will start at 9am."

Coun Chris Long, chairman of Epsom's social committee, said: "We are delighted we can extend the scheme as we always maintained that a 9am start time was necessary. We campaigned for months to make this scheme as easy and workable as possible for our residents."

But Steve Whiteway, director of Quality Line bus company, based in Epsom, had mixed views. "It is going to cause a problem to drivers and confusion to the passengers. It wouldn't have been so bad if they had done this right from the start instead of waiting until a month before the new passes come in. It is going to be confusing and it is going to be the drivers who get the flack," he said.

Pyjama party

Epsom businesses helped raise more than £500 last week for Cancer Research UK when they took part in Britain's Biggest Breakfast.

The morning was organised by recruitment company Huntress Search which also provided food for the event.

Dressed in pyjamas, staff took to the streets of Epsom to collect donations from shoppers.

Manager Julie Powderham said: "Everyone loved tucking into some tasty breakfast time treats and donating to Cancer Research UK."

Police hunt for robbers

Two masked men carried out an audacious raid at a bank in Tadworth on Thursday afternoon.

The raiders are being hunted by police after they dressed as workmen in yellow fluorescent work jackets and dust masks and robbed Barclays bank in Station Approach Road, between 1.40pm and 2pm.

One of the men approached the counter brandishing a handgun and ordered the cashier to hand over money while the other remained by the door. An unwitting customer entered the bank during the robbery and was ordered to lie on the floor.

The men then left, heading down an alleyway off the High Street with the stolen cash.

The robbery comes just two weeks after a similar armed robbery in Leatherhead. Police are still hunting two men in connection with the raid but have ruled out a link with the Tadworth robbery.

Detective Inspector Juliet Parker, who is leading the Tadworth investigation, said:

by AARON MOON

amoon@london.newsquest.co.uk

"These men were wearing very distinctive clothing which would have attracted people's attention.

"This was a terrifying incident for the young employee and it is vital we identify these men and bring them to justice.

"We believe they left via an alleyway off the High Street, but we want to know where they went."

Police want to hear from anyone who was in the Tadworth area on Thursday afternoon between 1.40pm and 2pm who saw two men wearing fluorescent yellow jackets.

Barclays Bank is offering a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of these suspects.

Anyone with information is urged to contact Detective Constable Trudie Harrison at Caterham CID on 0845 125 2222 quoting reference B/08/4297 or to call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Before the millions: A pre-Abramovich Chelsea team will be taking on a group of local dads to support the Rainbow Trust

Old boys will take each other on to raise money

Chelsea legends Kerry Dixon, Graham Le Saux and Ray Wilkins will be dusting down their old Chelsea strips to play against Bookham Old Boys, a group of local dads, at Leatherhead football club to raise funds for the Rainbow Trust.

The trust is a Leatherhead based charity which supports families with a child who has a life threatening or terminal illness.

The match will bring together the talents of some of Chelsea's greatest ex-players, who will be available to sign autographs and be photographed before the match.

Chelsea's goal scoring legend, Kerry Dixon, said: "It's good fun to get out onto the pitch and play with your former football colleagues and, of course, it's always great to support and raise money for a worthwhile cause too.

"The Bookham Old Boys better watch out - we're expecting a 7-0 victory!"

Although the match does not take place until May 25, tickets are already on sale.

They cost £7 per adult, £3 for children under 16 and senior citizens, or family tickets (two adults and two children) cost £16.

Tickets can be purchased either by visiting the website below, or by calling 01372 220085.

Butcher takes initiative to turn the village green

A week before Marks and Spencer revealed it was set to begin charging its customers five pence for plastic carrier bags, one Ewell businessman had already taken the initiative to go green.

Ken Eve, who owns the only butchers shop in Ewell Village, took a delivery of 500 environment friendly jute bags and hopes that they will help bring an end to the plastic bags that his business had originally been handing out.

"We are switching away from plastic bags, aiming to be plastic-free by the end of this month," he said. "We are encouraging customers to use these durable bags permanently."

His business opened in 1986 and is listed in Rick Stein's book, Food Heroes. The TV chef said he was impressed with its free-range British chickens, pork and beef.

During the same period eight cases of MRSA were reported, four of them found on the day the patients were admitted. Two of them were admitted to hospital from nursing homes.

Epsom and St Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust is in the middle of a campaign to reduce infection rates, including a deep clean programme and a bare below the elbows policy.

Cash machine crooks

Two men who tampered with an Epsom cash machine made their escape after a dramatic chase through the town centre.

An Epsom man who saw the pair removing a camera fixed over the Nationwide bank cash machine in Epsom High Street called the police and tried to detain them but they fled.

With the help of another two men the three gave chase but the suspects escaped through the Ashley Centre car park.

The incident happened at about 1.30pm on Mothering Sunday.

The Epsom man, who does not want to be named, became suspicious when the cash machine retained his card. He phoned the bank and cancelled the card and

by HEATHER DARLINGTON

hdarlington@london.newsquest.co.uk

shortly afterwards saw two men of Eastern European appearance remove something white from the machine. A few minutes later they returned and removed a camera from above it.

"I called the police and I tried to detain them, but I couldn't. I chased them with the help of two lads in a white van but they got away."

People who used the Nationwide cash machine should check their transactions carefully.

The two men who removed the camera from above the machine were of eastern European appearance aged between 24 and 27. One was about 5ft 10in and of slim build and the other was about 5ft 7in and stockily built.

PC Philip Grant, Crime Reduction Officer for Epsom and Ewell, warned users of cash machines to take special care.

"Always remain aware of people around you when using a cash machine, particularly anyone trying to look over your shoulder."

"Look behind you before entering your Pin to make sure you are not being watched."

"Look for anything out of the ordinary – if the machine is not responding in the usual way cease the transaction and inform your bank and then Surrey Police."

Anyone with information should call Surrey police on 0845 125 2222.

Brazen burglars target boarders

An exclusive Ashted boarding school was targeted by burglars this week in a brazen daytime raid.

The burglars confidently swaggered into the grounds of City of London Freeman's School in Ashted Park on Monday sometime between 11am and 1pm and looted the school's residential section.

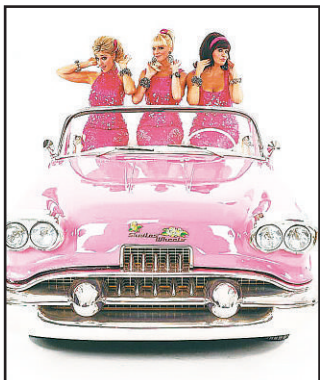

Among the items stolen were two laptops, money of various currencies and a wallet from a room in the building where the boarding students stay.

Although it has more than 1,000 students, nearly 50 of these are boarders who stay at the school during term time and pay more than £20,000 a year.

It is thought the thieves got in through a changing room and when challenged by a member of staff said they were lost and had been looking for reception.

Detective Sergeant Kimball Edey said: "Officers from my team have a number of positive leads and are speaking with witness from the school."

Pink ladies to drive in

Hello Sheilas: The girls in their pink cadillac

Diners in Banstead could be mistaken for thinking they are in the middle of a car insurance advert next week.

Post restaurant, in the High Street, is playing host to the three Sheilas whose singing and TV antics helped make the company Sheilas' Wheels the fastest growing insurance brand ever.

The girls will be arriving at the restaurant on March 12 in the pink cadillac from the adverts and performing two 20 minute sets of Motown and soul classics.

The restaurant is owned by celebrity chef Toby Tobin.

Quitting: Donna Gomez

Surrey Primary Care Trust receptionist Donna Gomez has promised to mark No Smoking Day by announcing that she has given up tobacco after 35 years as a smoker.

She enlisted the help of the Surrey NHS Stop Smoking Service, has joined a stop smoking group and is using nicotine replacement therapy in an attempt to beat the habit.

"I haven't had a cigarette for five weeks now. Having the support makes a huge difference – I would never of made it this far on my own."

Surrey PCT is sending teams out and about to persuade smokers to stub out a giant cigarette and pledge to become non-smokers in a campaign leading up to No Smoking Day on March 12.

Grandad's thank you

by AARON MOON

amoon@london.newsquest.co.uk

A man who last year suffered a serious heart attack while swimming and sank to the bottom of the pool has paid tribute to the staff who saved his life.

Eddy Dymott, 82, from St Norman's Way in Ewell, was swimming at Banstead Sports Centre in October. Pausing at the side of the pool, he decided to do one more length before getting out.

He said: "I had been swimming for about 30 minutes and I remember swimming to the side, having a look around and thinking that I had just do one more length."

"The next thing I knew I was waking up in the ambulance. I could hear the paramedics talking to me and I thought who's this and what the hell am I doing here. I was laying there, wet through and still in my trunks."

As Eddy began his final length at the deep end of the pool, he suffered a massive heart attack and sank to the bottom.

The quick reactions of the staff and the lifeguard on duty at the time meant that Eddy's life was saved.

He said: "A young lifeguard dived in and pulled me up."

"The rest of the team worked on me. I think my heart stopped so they used the defibrillator and got it going again before the paramedics arrived."

Eddy spent 24 hours at Epsom General Hospital and was then transferred to St Thomas' Hospital where he remained for two weeks before undergoing a double heart bypass.

Grandfather of five Eddy is now well on the way to recovery and is taking part in a fitness rehabilitation programme at Epsom.

He said: "The surgeons told me how lucky I'd been. If I had sunk to the bottom in the shallow end, it could have damaged my brain. But because I sank at the deep end, the cold temperature at the bottom prevented any brain damage."

"It was fantastic seeing the team who saved my life when I went back for the first time. I took them some potted plants as a way to say thank you and they were pleased to see me. I am back swimming again now but am just doing a few lengths to start with."

Live savers: Eddy Dymott, 82, with lifeguard Jenna Veless and duty manager Claire Franklin

Heron fatally tangled

by HELEN CRANE

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

A heron was put to sleep by Wildlife Aid to end its agony after it was horribly injured by a careless angler's discarded tackle.

A team from the Leatherhead animal charity was called out to rescue the bird last Thursday.

It was caught in a fishing line and was thrashing about, unable to free itself. A heavy 40 gramme fishing float was wrapped round the bird's feathers and a three-pronged barbed hook was poking its flesh.

One hook was deeply embedded in the bird's thigh and the other through the opposite ankle.

When it arrived at the animal hospital, wildlife experts discovered the heron had a severe infection around one of the hooks and it had shattered its beak as it tried to prise the device from its thigh.

The injuries to the heron, which was very thin and weak, were so severe, especially those to its beak, that the decision was made to put it to sleep and end a long stretch of excruciating suffering.

Wildlife Aid veterinary nurse Hazel Taylor said: "This heron has suffered terribly at the hands of man's carelessness. We see many injuries which are caused by fishing hooks and tackle, often with water birds swallowing hooks which then get lodged in their throats, ultimately causing death by starvation as they cannot feed any longer.

"Wildlife Aid would urge all fishermen to act responsibly in the management of their lines, hooks and floats and not to endanger the lives of innocent creatures through their own negligence."

The heron was found near Guildford but the Wildlife Aid warning is directed to all anglers who use local ponds, rivers and lakes.

Guard against catalytic converter thefts

Van owners in Mole Valley are being warned to be extra vigilant following a spate of catalytic converter thefts.

Since the beginning of the year, 34 catalytic converters have been stolen from Mole Valley, Reigate, Banstead and Tandridge, Surrey Police say.

Catalytic converters are devices which treat a vehicle's exhaust to reduce pollution.

The thefts have mostly been from Ford Transit vans. It is thought the devices are stolen for scrap.

Detective Chief Inspector Chris Raymer said: "We believe those committing these offences are travelling into Surrey. It only takes a few minutes for a thief to crawl under your vehicle and remove the converter which is then sold on."

Owners are advised to mark their property with their contact details so stolen items can be more easily returned if found. Anyone with information about the thefts should call Surrey Police on 0845 125 2222.

Hot young band come to The Fore

After storming a BBC live music competition in Bristol, musicians The Fore returned to busk in Sutton on a sunny Saturday afternoon.

The fab four regularly busk in Sutton town centre where they say they love to play.

Singer Spencer Hannabuss said: "We play a lot of town centres but there's something about Sutton that we all really like."

"Maybe it's because our music appeals to a wide age range, but we always seem to get a good reception in the town centre."

Taggers won't serve time

by COURT REPORTER

newsdesk@suttonguardian.co.uk

Tagged: Graffiti on a train

Graffiti taggers who caused £67,000 of damage around Belmont had their detention sentences quashed last week.

In December the youths, who cannot be named, were fined more than £6,000 in compensation and jailed for a total of 10 months.

But at Croydon Crown Court on Friday the sentences were quashed by Recorder Rebecca Poulet because of their previous good behaviour and early guilty plea.

In a four-month spree the boys – a 16-year-old and a 17-year-old – repeatedly vandalised trains inside and out as well as bridges, walls and buildings. The youths called themselves the WDS crew, which stands for "We don't sleep."

They were arrested after CCTV images captured them spraying graffiti around Belmont station. When arrested they were found with spray cans in their rucksacks along with plastic gloves, a digital camera, camera phones and a variety of spray nozzles.

Police then went to their homes, seizing personal computers, computer disks, external hard drives and paper showing practice drawings of their tags.

The youths pleaded guilty to a total of 28 offences and between them had 221 offences taken into consideration, each receiving a three-year Asbo preventing them from further acts of graffiti.

But lifting the detention sentences Recorder Poulet said referral orders were more appropriate.

"These were an extremely serious and long-standing series of offences committed over a four-month period. You repeatedly went out together and performed acts of graffiti on numerous trains, stations and bridges in the Belmont and Banstead areas and caused a great deal of damage."

"The reason we have decided not to hold you in custody is that you are both of previously good character, and you both pleaded guilty at the earliest opportunity. And we feel you have very good futures ahead of you, one at school and the other at work," she said.

The 16-year-old boy was given a referral order lasting 12 months. The older youth was given a nine-month order.

What do you think of the lifting of the graffiti vandals' sentences?

Pritchard is new Cheam councillor

Conservative Jonathan Pritchard is the new councillor for Cheam ward, following last week's election.

Mr Pritchard won with 1,541 votes, 87 votes ahead of Liberal Democrat hopeful Wendy Mathys who came in at a close second.

UKIP candidate Frank Day and Labour representative Kathy Allen trailed behind with 260 and 106 votes respectively.

The election presents no change to the political make-up of the all-Conservative ward, with Mr Pritchard replacing disqualified Conservative councillor Eleanor Pinfold.

Mr Pritchard is a widowed father of one who has his own business providing educational IT services.

Turnout was 44 per cent.

Lack of creche forces shoppers to Kingston

by LISA WILLIAMS

lisaw@london.newsquest.co.uk

Shoppers who despair at having to drag unwilling children around the town centre may soon be able to drop them off for dancing and non-alcoholic cocktails at one of the town's night spots.

Worcester Park resident Isabel Ramsbotham is just one parent who has been driven to snub Sutton's shops for nearby Kingston with her two-year-old daughter Jasmine after the creche in the St Nicholas Centre closed more than a year ago.

"Children hate shopping more than husbands do. My friends and I were disappointed when the creche closed because it was a lovely place for children to stay while we did the shopping. I get so much more done and it gives me a little break," she said.

While nursery facilities did exist in the town centre, she said, they required parents to commit to at least a couple of mornings a week and were not as convenient as being able to drop one's offspring off right in the centre of the shops.

Her friends wrote to the centre to complain but a new creche has not been forthcoming.

Centre manager Sharon Golding said it was a shame the creche had to close but finding a replacement creche was not easy.

"The New Look extension is where the creche used to be so it would be hard to find the space. Also, times have changed and Government regulations have made it harder for people to set them up," she said.

But help could be at hand in the form of nightclub Chicago Rock Café.

Responding to news about Sutton's lack of creche facilities, nightclub manager Mark Brenton said he might be able to provide an answer.

"Chicago's would be a good place for a creche as we already run lots of children's parties.

"The children like the light-up dancefloor and we can serve them non-alcoholic cocktails.

"If somebody was to approach me with the right qualifications to run a creche I would seriously look into it," he said.

Third man charged with murder

A third man has appeared in court charged with the murder of Mick McGrath in Carshalton.

Wyuxiang Liu, 25, a former chef of Holloway Road in north London, was committed to the Old Bailey for a hearing on March 28.

The body of 50-year-old Mr McGrath was discovered at his rented flat in Shaftsbury Avenue on November 29.

On Friday morning last week Sutton magistrates remanded Liu in custody after his bail application was refused.

Chou Wei Leong, 21, unemployed, of Acacia Road, Haringey, and Ryan Parker-Saunders, 23, of Thurlby Road, West Norwood, are also charged with the murder. Both men have been remanded in custody.

Top 10 finish for Sutton Grammar

Sutton Grammar School for Boys celebrated coming joint-seventh in the country for key stage 3 exams.

With a borough average point score of 38.3, Sutton was among the best-performing local education authorities, with Sutton Grammar coming joint seventh in the country, along with Tiffin School in Kingston.

Headteacher of Sutton Grammar Gordon Ironside said he was pleased with the results but that performance tables were not of great importance to the school.

"We want to do a great job for the boys so they can do the best they can do but performance tables are not what drives what we do," he said.

Report slams baby care

by HELEN CRANE

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

Four babies may have suffered neurological problems because of poor care at St Helier Hospital.

In another four cases there were lessons to be learned about the management of women in labour, according to a report published this week.

The report also revealed that an above average number of babies are born at St Helier with raised lactate levels, detected in routine blood tests, which can lead to serious medical problems.

The report has been prepared for tomorrow's (Friday) meeting of the Epsom and St Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust board

It includes a summary from an eminent consultant paediatrician Dr Fran Ackland, brought in to investigate the problems in the paediatric services of the trust, including recruitment problems and the above average number of babies being born at St Helier with raised lactate levels.

She called on the trust to maintain paediatric services at both hospitals in spite of recruitment difficulties.

"This should not be used as a lever for service reconfiguration," she wrote. "Relationships between the two departments appear to be so poor that I believe that using this issue to force service reconfiguration would lead to further worsening of this relationship."

She concluded: "The increased incidence of babies with raised lactate levels may be linked to the lack of consultant obstetrician presence on the labour wards". She called for further investigation.

The hospital's own report said that in 2007 70 babies were admitted to the St Helier neonatal unit with high lactates.

Twenty babies had "symptoms of concern" and a review of their care showed that for 12 babies no more could have been done for them, but in four cases the clinical management "may have contributed to the infant's symptoms", which might have been prevented by having senior staff on the ward.

"In four further cases there are important points to be learned from the management of the women during labour."

The report concludes that senior presence on the labour ward has been increased, clinical guidelines will be reviewed and further investigations are being made into the care of babies admitted to the neonatal and special care units.

Fight may still be on to save Nonsuch Mansion

Rumours are spreading that Nonsuch Mansion could still be under threat.

Just as campaigners were thinking that their long campaign to save the mansion was over, they were given a hint that the fight may still be on.

Campaigner Bill Slaughter, chairman of the Stoneleigh and Auriol Residents' Association (Sara), has been told by a secret source that Surrey County Council could put a last minute spanner in the works and try to sell the mansion for commercial purposes, including luxury housing or a hotel.

His committee has already started a petition and will be

by HELEN CRANE

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

collecting signatures at the Herald of Spring exhibition in Ewell at the weekend to demand that Nonsuch is kept open to the public.

Surrey County Council owns the mansion and most of the park, which is run by a joint management committee. This consists of representatives from both Epsom and Sutton councils.

The deal which had been negotiated between all three councils was for Surrey to offer a long-term lease for a peppercorn rent to the two borough councils.

They would then offer a long lease to a catering firm to renovate the Mansion House to be used for weddings and other functions, as well as allowing public access to the building.

The lease is due to be approved and signed by members of Surrey's executive committee at its meeting on Tuesday, March 25, which will be attended by Sutton and Cheam MP Paul Burstow, one of the campaigners trying to safeguard public access to Nonsuch.

Mr Burstow and Mr Slaughter are calling on members of the public to attend the meeting at County Hall in Kingston to ensure that Surrey does not go back on its promises.

Mr Slaughter is also calling on the public to sign the petition. He said: "This is the very last chance. I implore everybody who cares about securing the long-term future of Nonsuch Park and the Mansion House to sign Sara's petition."

Surrey County Council said the rumour was untrue and that it was still working to find a solution.

The petition will be available at Bourne Hall this weekend or can be downloaded at stoneleighandauriol.co.uk

Anorexia is not a slimmers' disease – it often starts as a longing to return to childhood. CHLOE LAMBERT meets one of the world's experts on eating disorders to find out the facts

MENTAL HEALTH

it's everyone's business

The path to recovery from eating disorders

The smell of hot, delicious food wafts down the stairs at the eating disorders unit at Springfield Hospital.

It is lunchtime and 20 young, fragile-looking women are quietly sitting down at a table in the dining room. Nurses in plain clothes sit with them as they bravely begin on their plates.

Away from the group, one girl is walking into her room pushing a machine in front of her. Not yet ready to bring food to her mouth,

Scale of the problem: Weight loss can become a problem

she is being fed by a tube into her nose.

Women from across the country come to stay at Springfield's in-patient unit, whose recovery rates have brought it an international reputation in this area of mental health.

Professor Hubert Lacey, a leading authority on eating disorders who teaches and practises here, leads me along the corridor. The girls' bedrooms are brightly decorated with posters, much like the room of any other teens. There are no ensuite bathrooms, to prevent the temptation to vomit after eating, Prof Lacey explains.

One in 100 women aged 15-40 will develop anorexia. There is no single known cause for this terrifying disorder and with each case being slightly different it can be difficult to treat – 15 to 20 per cent of patients will die from it.

Anorexia occurs in all social groups but Prof Lacey says young women are most susceptible to it, often because they struggle to cope with the changes to their body during adolescence.

He says: "A woman's puberty is much shorter and much more marked than a man's. Women are fatter – they gain fatty tissue for breastfeeding and food reserves.

"This alters their relationships with their family and with society. Some women find it hard to handle this change and they long for the quietness of childhood. Anorexia becomes a coping strategy."

Pressure on teenage girls over marital problems, friendships and relationships, together with rapid, radical changes in their physical appearance can all trigger an obsessive fear of normal body weight.

But Prof Lacey says there is no evidence that families cause anorexia. "Basically this condition is environmental.

"One of our patients here is one of a pair of identical twins. One developed anorexia, the other didn't. Parents often feel guilty, but we do not blame them.

"My heart goes out to them. To watch your loved one halving their weight – families are riven by it. They feel they may have caused it and they don't know what to do about it."

Many young women come to Springfield weighing as little as three or four stone, and are gently nursed back to health.

Laura Lock, head occupational therapist, says: "It is similar to the transition from babies to adolescents. Some patients need to be held while they are fed. They are literally on death's door."

Quite apart from the health implications of a profound weight loss, eating disorders fundamentally affect a person's ability to go about their everyday lives.

Going to the pub, shopping for clothes, getting in the bath and looking in the mirror can all become frightening ordeals for someone who detests their own shape.

At Springfield, patients are helped through occupational therapy and psychiatry to overcome their hatred of their body and fear of food.

They also learn to communicate with others, live independently and manage stress and anxiety.

Ms Lock says: "Some people want to stay ill and it can go on all their lives. They go out, lower their weight and come back in."

However, of those who do develop anorexia, 50 per cent will recover. To date, Springfield has not had a single death of a patient in its care.

The staff here are helping hundreds of women and their families to overcome this devastating illness and lead normal and happy lives.

Prof Hubert Lacey runs the eating disorder clinic at Springfield Hospital

Our language is evolving all the time. HEATHER DARLINGTON reports on the latest ‘Blinglish’ lingo

Speaking in tongues – innit?

It is estimated that English slang is changing so fast that about five new expressions are coined everyday.

For many the deviation amounts to the “bastardisation” of the English language, while for others it proves just how flexible our mother tongue is.

In south London, it would seem, these new words are fast becoming part of the everyday language, especially among the young.

Teen lingo, or “Blinglish” as it has been termed, can however prove confusing for the uninitiated.

For Tracey Andrews, a sport and exercise tutor at Carshalton College, help comes from a little mutual understanding.

“We hold tutorials with all our full-time students every week and this is a chance for them to talk about issues affecting their lives,” she says.

“Language is one of the topics we like to cover, if anything it helps us understand more about them. It’s almost an education for the tutors.

“We have to know what they’re saying and at times it helps if we talk to them in their language.

“Every generation has used

Youth slang: Graffiti and the hip hop culture has contributed to an evolving language slang, particularly in young adulthood – the terms just evolve,” she says.

But for Professor Sue Fox from Queen Mary’s College, London, teenagers and their “bredrin” are fast forming their own brand of English, potent enough to push out London’s traditional Cockney slang.

Her theory is supported by linguistic expert Professor David Crystal of Reading University, author of the Cambridge Encyclopaedia of the English Language who said that the ethnic diversity found in London is bound to produce new norms of speech.

“The English language is constantly evolving,” he said. “It has always been a great borrower of words from other languages, and what we are now seeing is the operation of this process at a dialect level.”

All this can spell bad news for adults – as part of the point of youth slang is to exclude parents, teachers and police.

“As soon as it gets picked up by adults,” adds Professor Crystal. “They drop it, that’s what happens.

“And that is why it is so ephemeral.”

Words also evolve from the use of new technologies, especially the mobile phone and SMS (short message service) or text messages.

These often creep into the language together with others in popular culture from media such as movies, music lyrics, youth magazines and television.

While “dat” and “dere” may be of Jamaican origin their use in SMS messages as easier-to-key options to “that” and “there and their” cement them as slang in common usage.

There is also obvious lending from across the pond, with words such as “feds” and “pent” used to refer to the police and prison respectively.

The influence of rap music is also significant, acting as one of the main channels through which British youngsters tune into American lingo.

In America the phenomenon has been termed “ebonics” – a fusion of the words ebony and phonic. Raging debate remains about whether the resultant language is simply bad English or a viable dialect, but whatever side of the fence you sit, it seems one thing remains, youth slang is fast saturating London, whether or not its users fully understand its potency, or even meaning.

“It seems like everyone is doing it at my school,” says 16-year-old Lizzie from south London. “Most of them grew up in posh middle class families but their accents sound as if they are from Brooklyn or somewhere.

“Everybody’s scared to ask what it means because they’d get laughed at, but I bet if anyone did ask they wouldn’t even know.”

Slang top ten

Tracey Andrews, a sport and exercise tutor at Carshalton College compiled this list of top ten words used by students:

'I've been through hell in house'

A council tenant with a syndrome known as "chemical Aids" faces eviction after refusing alternative accommodation because it would make her ill.

Ena Dupont has multiple chemical sensitivity (MCS) which means she has developed allergic reactions to chemicals such as perfumes and cleaning fluids.

For three years she has needed specialist hospital treatment after being exposed to pesticides at an allotment near

by KEVIN BARNES

kbarnes@london.newsquest.co.uk

her Wallington bungalow. Her skin breaks out in a painful rash and neighbours are kept awake because the burning sensation makes her scream repeatedly.

Despite a request from her GP that she transfer to a concrete building, Miss Dupont has only now been offered new housing.

Her bungalow is earmarked for demolition and, because she declined to move to a recently painted building, she has been served with a notice to quit.

She said: "I've been through hell, living in a torture house all this time. People misunderstand me. They tell me to shut up, but how can I shut up when my body is burning?"

"Sometimes it feels like an animal in distress is better understood than a human.

"The council forced me to live in this property, and now it feels like it is trying to wash its hands of my condition."

Sutton Housing Partnership insists it is still trying to find Miss Dupont a suitable living space.

But a spokeswoman said developers needed vacant possession by April.

"It was originally agreed that either alternative temporary or permanent accommodation would be found for all the non-secure residents," she said. "As a precaution, notices to quit were served on the four residents in temporary accommodation. The other three non-secure residents have already been moved. Miss Dupont was offered alternative accommodation, which she refused."

MCS, also known as 20th-century syndrome, is recognised by the NHS but there are no available treatment facilities.

Jailed: Carl Dinnage

Youth jailed for 'barbaric' attack

Carshalton teenager Carl Dinnage was jailed last week for a drug-fuelled attack on a pizza delivery man in September.

Inner London Crown Court heard how Dinnage, 17, from Sherbourne Crescent, joined his friends Craig Ainslie and Asha Grey on a spree of violence after drinking champagne and taking cocaine at a party.

The trio beat up a delivery driver in Wandsworth, even using his own helmet in the attack. They pounced on another man in Wimbledon and bundled him into the boot of their stolen car where they punched and kicked him.

They then attacked a third man in Battersea who nearly bled to death after being stabbed by Grey.

Judge Roger Chapple told the three: "I'm told in this court almost daily of the dreadful things people do, but still once in a while a case comes along that has the ability to shock me. This is such a case.

"Your behaviour that night was as barbaric as it was shocking. The feature of this case is the level of violence used and it was entirely gratuitous."

Dinnage was jailed for two years and given a training order.

Do you think two years in jail is enough punishment for Dinnage's appalling crimes? Have your say at yourlocalguardian.co.uk

You and your wellbeing

Yes, we've still got our wobbly tums and bouncy bums, but with January's faddy diets way behind us, it's time to put a bit of thought into the way we live. We all want to live longer, be thinner, smarter, fitter, feel better and have more energy to participate in life. In short, we all want a happy life.

Whether you need a bit more energy to take up something new or you simply can't run around after the grandkids, like you did with your own children, making a few small changes will make the world of difference to how you look and feel.

In nature, many things get stronger as they get older- look at any tree. We humans often see age as a weakness and forget that with growing older comes the strength and experience future generations depend on. You're bursting with knowledge, inner strength and know how to enjoy yourself - come on, those smile lines came from years of laughter!

This is the time to invest in yourself and think about your most fragile possession, your body. Take good care of your body and your body will take good care of you.

And because what you eat plays a vital part in shaping your life, looking after 'me' also means eating well. The good news is that incorporating foods that benefit your health and wellbeing and avoiding those that don't is really simple. Take saturated fat for instance - it's the bad fat you can live without. Omega 3 and 6 are the good fats you probably need a bit more of and as for artificial this and that - you can definitely banish those for good. You don't have to eat rabbit food or spend a fortune. It's a question of balance. Just make a few little changes and notice a big difference.

Which is where we like to think we can help. At Alpro we're particularly passionate about wellbeing. Wellbeing in its widest sense - how it affects you and your environment. Alpro Soya brings you the goodness of the whole soya bean. Its tasty range is naturally low in saturated fat, contains Omega 3 and 6 and is free from artificial colours and preservatives. Alpro's range includes alternatives to milk, yogurts, custards, cream and indulgent desserts and is available in most major supermarkets. Treat your body with care and it will return the favour. Make your body the best place to live.

Alpro Soya's 'You and Your Wellbeing' guide is a handy booklet, designed to make taking the first steps to better health and wellbeing a piece of cake!

It's full of interesting hints and tips on nutrition, exercise, relationships and environment. What's more, it contains delicious and nutritious recipes, secrets on how to break habits and a weekly planner, to help you keep on track.

Top nursery to shut?

The only nursery in Sutton to be awarded an outstanding Ofsted report is being threatened with closure.

Tendercare Nursery in Orchard Hill has been told to move after a decision by Sutton and Merton Primary Care Trust (PCT) to sell the land to fund the recommissioning of care for patients with learning difficulties out into the community.

For manager Michelle Barton the disruption could prove devastating. "We have been doing very well," she said. "But unless we find suitable alternative accommodation we will be forced to close."

Parents have lodged their support for the nursery, but for many the uncertain future is forcing them to look elsewhere.

"My son has attended Tendercare since May 2007 and we are very happy with the nursery," Lucy Filler, 34, from Wallington, said. "It is a supportive and caring environment."

"Before we chose it we looked around 15 other nurseries and it's not as simple as just finding another one. We are a working couple and unfortunately we can't wait around to see if the nursery can find alternative accommodation, which is such a shame."

Anca Langridge, 34, from Carshalton, whose three-year-old daughter attends Tendercare, said the move had left her family in limbo.

A spokesman for the PCT said the sale was necessary to fund the shift of residents into the community, marking a move away from institutional to individual care. It also said it had been liaising with Tendercare Nursery about relocating the business since 2006.

He added: "We will continue to support our staff who have used Tendercare Nursery, and are looking at a range of options to ensure that all PCT staff continue to have access to affordable and good quality ty childcare facilities."

Anyone who knows of alternative suitable accommodation for the nursery can call Michelle Barton on 0208 770 8123.

'Eyesore' to stay

An unsightly "acoustic barrier" in Clensham Lane, Sutton, will remain standing despite a petition with 47 signatures requesting its removal.

The barrier was installed in 1999 by Transport for London (TfL) to protect residents in that area from traffic noise coming from the A217.

But some who do not live near it are calling for it to be pulled down. A consultation into the future of the barrier was carried out after complaints of it being an eyesore and a magnet for antisocial behaviour.

But at a Sutton local committee meeting last week it was revealed that the majority of complaints about the barrier, in the form of the petition, came from people who did not live near to it.

The barrier's direct neighbours turned up at the meeting to campaign for it to stay.

AGM tackles care

Equal rights and long-term care for older people are issues to be tackled at Sutton Seniors' Forum's AGM next week.

Paul Cann, a senior director of Help the Aged, is the guest speaker at the meeting on Friday, March 14.

The meeting will be the forum's 12th AGM and will be chaired by its honorary president, the mayor of Sutton, Councillor Myfanwy Wallace.

All are welcome to join the meeting held from 2 to 4pm at the Thomas Wall Centre in Benhill Avenue, Sutton.

Controversial NHS boss steps down

Controversial health executive Ruth Harrison has resigned from her job masterminding changes in maternity and paediatric services at Epsom and St Helier Hospitals.

At last a piece of good news, I thought. Not so. Epsom and St Helier are still retaining the services of the same consultancy (Durrow) employing also Ms Harrison. Given their track record I am sure the tender was desperately competitive. Does the NHS base their criteria in accepting tenders on costs alone? For any other job one must have a proven track record of success. Granted Britain loves the underdog, but to reward incompetence where lives are at stake beggars belief.

Ludovica Betts, Epsom

Ruth Harrison, who was in charge at a hospital, Stoke Mandeville, where 33 died from a superbug, as a result of the filthy conditions there and was given a £140,000 golden handshake. Now, she is a director running a health management consultancy, Durrow, which has been hired to manage a review of womens' and childrens' services at Epsom and St Heliers Hospitals. Surely, she should join the ranks on the wards?

Anne Wotana Kaye, London

Now there's an advert for home births if ever I saw one.

Scott, Sutton

And of course no reaction from Paul Burstow, MP for Sutton and shadow health secretary, which would presumably leave him in the perfect position to be able to do something about this, but then I guess he'd have to be a vertebrate first.

Charles Kennedy, Cheam

According to the Press Association she was being paid £52,000 for consultancy fees. that's a lot of money for a few for a cash-strapped NHS trust.

Fred, Sutton

If you value hospital, then turn up to board meeting

If Epsom Hospital is your local Hospital, you need to turn out in force to demand Epsom Hospital retains all the services that are vital to the local community.

Go to the board meeting at Epsom Hospital on Friday, March 7, and let the board members understand how you feel.

Don't leave it to someone else!

From the BBC and various internet sites one can conclude that the article entitled "Can 'The Angel of Death' help us?" (Epsom Guardian, February 28) by Helen Crane led to the withdrawal from a review of women's and children's services at Epsom and St Helier hospitals.

Does Epsom and St Helier Hospital really need to join with Surrey PCT and Sutton and Merton PCT to undertake a study by an external body to manage a review of women's and childrens services at their hospitals?

The hospital board had already decided on a course of action prior to their meeting in June 2007.

The various demonstrations that took place at that time meant that any proposed changes needed to be put on a back burner.

On Friday, January 25, 2008, the trust chief executive Samantha Jones reported on a number of improvements that had taken place, including the appointment of 15 additional midwives and two new senior midwives.

She also reported that the trust was in the process of recruiting two additional consultant obstetricians.

What has not been said is where these additional staff will be located!

She went on to state - "the trust has made significant improvements in staff training and patient bookings and we have started work on a major £600,000 programme to refurbish maternity facilities at St Helier Hospital."

So where does this leave Epsom Hospital

What is the point of employing external consultants when the board has already decided on a course of action?

I am sure the Epsom Guardian readers would be very interested to learn exactly what the remit was for the review of women's and children's services at Epsom and St Helier hospitals.

Was this study commissioned as a smoke screen or was it undertaken to underline exactly what the board were going to do anyway?

If you value your local hospital go to the board meeting on March 7

BOB MACKISON
Via email

Why do we need help? No runway

Living in a country where inept MPs and incompetent heads of government departments are rewarded with lucrative directorships and/or knighthoods, I was not surprised to learn that the Epsom and St Helier Hospital Trust were to pay a failed NHS executive £52,000 to act as a consultant.

Seeking advice from someone who, when in charge of a hospital trust, lost 33 patients to Cdiff is, to say the least, disgusting, but even more obscene is the fact that they have had to do so.

If I am correct, the trust's board consists of eight executive directors and five non-executive directors. Director of nursing care standards and director of strategy are only two of the many titles held by members of this highly-paid group.

And let's not forget that below them, there is layer upon layer of other management. My question is quite a simple one. Why, when there appears to be so many highly qualified people already on the payroll, is it necessary to bring in outside help? Either these people do not have the expertise they profess to have, or they are just not doing their job. It has to be one or the other!

Thanks for your support Springing!

As the candidate for UKIP in last week's Cheam byelection, I would like to place on record my thanks to those who took the time and trouble to vote for me.

Although I did not gain a victory, I can assure Cheam residents that we will continue to work on their behalf.

How much further will post offices drift apart?

As a pensioner, retired postman and supporter of local shops, I am very concerned about disappearing post offices, in particular 143 Gander Green Lane.

The New Labour government (the used-to-be socialist government) tells us it is committed to a national network of post offices, the problem is there are now big holes in it.

About 45 per cent of that network has disappeared under New Labour. The criteria for distance between post offices used to be a quarter of a mile, that is now one mile.

How long before it's one-and-a-half to two miles, or maybe they will put one in every supermarket?

I would like to know the percentage of post offices saved by consultation. Not many I'll bet. Once upon a time the post office used to be a one-stop-shop for government services. Nearly all of this has been farmed out to other shops.

Deliveries used to be before 10am, now deliveries do not start until 10. Deliveries can be any time in the afternoon, unless you are prepared to pay a premium for early delivery.

We are told by the Post Office, the nearest branch to Gander Green Lane will be 19 Grove Road. The problem is the post office there is already heavily used.

New Labour opened up the Post Offices to competition three years before required, making them vulnerable to European predators without being able to reciprocate.

Two things New Labour is well known for, privatisation and not listening to the public. Remember the two million who marched against the war? Don't be apathetic, write and protest before it is too late.

How did the angel occur?

The "angel of death" story, regarding Ruth Harrison's absurd reappearance in local medical affairs, highlights a regrettable trend in British public life: the shameless and obscenely overpaid public servant.

Their world, which can be studied by looking through the jobs pages in the national Guardian newspaper, is world where plain English, plain rules and common decency have all but disappeared and have been replaced by a weird political language (e.g "tendering specialist health consultancy"; "community partnerships"; "diversity monitoring") and a creative approach to the concept of guilt and failure.

The answer to why this situation has come about is book length and I hope that one day an enterprising journalist writes that book because the British people really need to be informed of the outrageous growth of a official membrane of pseudo political commissars, who interfere in local affairs - often with disastrous consequences.

This class has grown inexorably under new Labour, a party which believes in paying vast sums to people among the ever-swelling public service sector. Their rhetoric is one of accountability; but the reality is one of a veiled contempt for ordinary morals.

This town is comin' like a ghost town

Responding to readers' complaints about the lawlessness of its feral, hooded youths, AARON MOON decides to brave the mean streets of the notorious Longmead estate

Responding to a complaint from a resident living on Epsom's Longmead estate, I never envisaged what I would find when I started researching the area and the reaction a single story could provoke.

While Surrey Police, and Epsom and Ewell Borough Council claimed the "challenges" on the estate happened rarely and affected only a minority of people, many more contacted the Epsom Guardian overwhelmed that their story was finally being told.

The argument that ensued involved residents, Surrey Police, and Epsom and Ewell Borough Council.

They all argued over what was actually happening and how often.

Following a barrage of calls from residents over the past few weeks about the increasing amount of antisocial behaviour and criminal damage taking place, I decided I wanted to experience it first hand.

Just last week a concerned resident showed the Epsom Guardian video footage of the feral youths terrorising the estate, armed with baseball bats and golf clubs.

It was 8.30pm on a Thursday evening.

Admittedly, problems are supposed to be worse at weekends but I hoped the evening's mild temperature would lure out the troublemakers.

Walking through an unlit alleyway, I struggled to hear any movement in the surrounding bushes as yet again a police helicopter hovered loudly above, staying overhead for about an hour.

The alleyway came out to an opening opposite an extremely well-lit recreational ground. Complete with floodlighting and basketball nets, it lay unused and deserted.

In a video posted on the website of Rosebery Housing Association in 2006, youths living on the estate are talking about the problems, many of which are still ongoing.

"Fighting, there's fighting all the time," one said. "You've always got bottles flying around, criminal damage, breaking things. Anything crime related, you'll get it, but that's because there's nothing else to do."

"We just cause havoc to people around the estate because there's nothing else to do," said another.

As they are interviewed, in the background lies the same recreation ground I stumbled across. It was being used for football and basketball.

One of the youths being interviewed even recommends that the floodlighting should be used so they can play there more often. The floodlighting is certainly on when I am there, but it is completely deserted and the basketball hoops remain unused.

As I walked, a sudden crunching noise alarmed me for a brief moment before I realised it was simply a heavy sprinkling of broken glass – the only decoration to the recreation ground.

Cutting through a walkway past some garages, it got so dark that I had difficulty seeing. The streetlamps were simply ornamental poles shooting up into the sky and offered no light, merely providing a blanket of darkness that young thugs thrive on. I wondered how long the lights had been out of use.

Taking another turn and trying to remember my route in my head, I unwittingly came face to face with a group of youths sitting smoking.

Hooded up and sitting on steps at a crossroad of paths, they all turned and glared, making me feel, I admit, somewhat intimidated.

Remembering advice I was given once while abroad about never turning your back on a puma, I wondered whether this was advice I should begin to employ there and then.

As I retreated and made my way back to the heart of the estate, I passed three young children, the oldest being no more than 10 and the youngest being about seven, walking on their own down one of the roads.

Where they had been or were going to I had no idea, but I was surprised to see them so late on a Thursday evening alone.

Suddenly three older males appeared from across the street as I emerged from yet another alley. Seeing me, they began shouting obscenities, bizarrely ending with a racial slur.

I kept on moving and headed towards the back of the estate, an area which was featured in the video footage captured by a resident showing the youths illegally tearing around on motorbikes.

The first thing that struck me was the immense amount of graffiti over the concrete walls dividing the residential area and the old hospital grounds.

Nearly every section had been used as though they were a canvas used by artists.

Epsom and Ewell Borough Council claimed to have cleaned it all up but either it had completely disregarded this area of the estate or the local graffiti artists had been working long hours to re-create the unique decorations.

Ironically the street lights on this side of the estate were working and brightly bathed the illegal artwork in a pool of light.

A teenager leaned casually against the side of a house as he smoked and listened to music he had playing loudly from his mobile phone.

He watched me walk the length of the concrete fencing before shrinking back into the shadows.

As I walked around somewhat aimlessly and somewhat nervously, I realised that I had seen no older residents.

The only people were young teenagers armed with cigarettes, hoodies and occasionally a bad attitude.

There were no late night joggers, no dog walkers, no people walking up to the nearby shops – it was as if it was a ghost town.

I suddenly remembered the words of a resident who was the first to tell us about the ongoing problems.

“I would never walk around here at night,” she said, “I wouldn’t feel safe with my son.”

I returned to my car and began driving back through the estate, this time towards the exit, and felt a mixture of emotions: relief that I had made it back to my car safely but also a sense of sadness for the large percentage of good people on the estate that feel trapped within their own homes.

As I drove around the final bend, I passed a building surrounded by gates about 10ft high.

Each gate was flanked by a large pillar and on top of these sat two young lads, about 10 years old, posing for me as I drove past.

They were pretending to meditate and kept absolutely still. As I passed and neared the end of the road I looked into my mirror to see them erupt into fits of giggles and wondered, with the noticeable short supply of residents at night, whether I had been their biggest audience.

Taggers’ delight: It’s obvious the graffiti artists have been working overtime on the Longmead estate

Student nominated for apprentice of year award

An advanced apprentice at Merton College has been nominated for the Apprentice of the Year award.

Nicholas Chinn, who works for Harley Davidson, began the apprenticeship scheme in 2005 and then went on to the advanced apprenticeship in March 2007.

He was nominated by his tutors for the award. They described him as 'a hard working, able and inspirational student who is a willing helper to other members of his team.'

He said: "When I started the apprenticeship scheme I did not have much self-confidence, but working, learning and talking to customers my skills and confidence started to build. When I complete the apprenticeship I plan to stay with Harley Davidson and become a master technician."

Merton College is one of the country's leading centres for motorcycle maintenance training.

Their employers send them to the college to complete skills training and to be assessed in workplace practices.

Find out more about apprenticeships and the college's other courses at its open evening on Thursday, March 13.

Highly responsive. Incredibly responsible.

The BMW 118d is kinder on the environment with emissions of just 119 g/km CO₂. This extraordinary feat is possible thanks to a range of technologies called BMW EfficientDynamics which deliver an increase in performance together with a reduced impact on the environment. One small part of BMW EfficientDynamics is Auto Start-Stop. This standard feature switches off the engine when the car comes to rest and restarts it when the clutch is depressed, saving fuel and reducing emissions. Whats more, the Road Fund Licence only costs £35 per year and from 27 October 2008 the BMW 118d will be exempt from the London Congestion Charge.

Abi Dental in Sutton has one main aim – to make your visit to the dentist what most people can hardly anticipate – enjoyable.

The brand new surgery, with its contemporary interior, was opened six months ago by dentist Abeer Al-Adhami (known as Abi). Since then her team has been inundated with clients keen to learn more about Abi's friendly and welcoming approach to dentistry.

"The surgery has been doing extremely well and going from strength to strength," Abi told me.

"We are all very happy that our original goal to change people's perceptions about going to the dentist has been successful.

"We have proved that dentistry can be a pleasant and painless experience, in addition to being affordable."

The surgery has been so successful that Dr Amir Kamburov is joining Abi Dental as its resident Saturday dentist to cater for those who find it difficult to find time to get to the dentist during the week.

Dr Kamburov will provide all aspects of routine dentistry but his special interests lie in smile makeovers and facial aesthetic treatments, in which he has had the latest training in both from world renowned professors.

Aside from dentistry, Abi Dental will also offer implant procedures from Dr Nik Sisodia. Dr Sisodia is a congress director of the British Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry and has a long history of placing and restoring all types of tooth implants. He will begin consulting once a month from the middle of March.

An endless stream of happy customers has meant the surgery has received lots of positive feedback from clients. Some of the testimonials Abi has received include the following:

"My husband and I are what could be described as nervous patients, but from the first moment that we arrived for our consultation our minds were put at ease by the professionalism and reassuring nature of the staff. The procedures were carried out without discomfort and to a high standard." – Mrs R English, Morden.

"Since I first came to Abi Dental, I have always felt at ease. Everyone is really friendly and I have been more than happy with the quality of the treatment I received. The surgery is always spotless, and the atmosphere relaxing, I wouldn't go anywhere else. I would highly recommend Abi Dental to anyone." – Mr D Green, Sutton.

"If you have ever put off going to the dentist because you are nervous, then Abi Dental is the place to go as you are immediately put at ease." – Mrs L Brayham, Sutton

"For more than 30 years I have never undergone dental treatment without being sedated until I visited Abi Dental. After two sedation appointments with Abi, I felt confident enough to have treatment without being sedated and I have never looked back." – Mrs. J. Welshman, Ashted.

"They have transformed my feelings about going to the dentist. The quality of treatment is excellent and I now look forward to my next check-up! Thanks girls!" – Mr R Bastillo, Sutton.

Abi Dental is the antithesis of what one might regard as a typical dentist's surgery. Abi has been able to transform the attitudes of many of her patients suffering from nerves thanks to the fact she offers sedation during treatment.

Abi Dental also offers dental check-ups and root canal treatments plus cosmetic surgery, including veneers and teeth whitening.

Memory Foam Mattress Sale

Say goodnight to back pain!!

Benefit from the latest advance in sleep technology...

at affordable prices

Why Choose Memory Foam?

If you wake every morning with a crick in your neck or stiff back, chances are your mattress is either too soft or too hard. Try a Memory Foam mattress which provides a sleep surface that conforms to your body weight and shape.

Is Memory Foam the Best Support for those Aching Joints?

When you take into consideration the amount of pressure you place on your shoulder and hips if you are a side sleeper, neck if you are a stomach sleeper or lower back if you are a back sleeper, you will realise that visco-elastic pressure sensitive foam will offer you the best chance for reducing the overall pressure placed on your joints by contouring them without pushing back against them.

- Moulds to your individual shape
- Relaxes your muscles and joints
- Supports neck, back, shoulders and legs
- Even weight and pressure distribution
- Unique Air Layer™ for added comfort
- Non allergenic and anti-bacterial
- Removable washable cover on certain models

Green Guardian

In association with Sutton Council

Readers give our top tips the thumbs up

The Green Guardian environmental project has received a ringing endorsement from readers in a recent customer satisfaction questionnaire.

Two thirds of respondents said they read the Green Guardian page every week and a similar number said something they had read, or seen on our website, had prompted them to take action to protect the environment.

Our coverage of local environmental news got a big thumbs up, with 85 per cent of the 163 respondents rating it as good or very good.

Almost two thirds knew about the Green Guardian Awards and a whopping 96 per cent supported the concept of local environmental awards.

Newspapers proved to be the most popular way of receiving information about the environment, followed by websites, newsletters and email. A third of respondents had so far used greenguardian.co.uk

Environmental top tips followed by local news were the most popular pages on the website.

Green Guardian founder Sean Dugan said it was great to have confirmation that people value the project so much and really act on the information it provides. He pledged that the feedback from readers will be used to improve this year's campaign when it launches in late March.

He said: "We know of so many examples of people who have been inspired by the awards and by learning about what other people in their area are doing.

"We are not resting on our laurels. Environmental change is the biggest challenge facing our society and, along with our partners in this project, we are determined to do even more to encourage everyone to reduce their environmental footprint."

The Green Guardian project and awards were launched in 2006 in a unique partnership between the South London Guardian series, local councils and sponsor organisations.

Last year, it spread to south-east London, thanks to a partnership between the News Shopper series and local councils. There are plans to start sister projects in north London.

If you are a company which would like to support south London's biggest environmental awareness project in 2008, and promote your own green credentials, contact Liz Waters on 020 8329 9252.

Trailblazing: Residents celebrated their dedication to a sustainable suburb

Hackbridge shares eco-vision

An initiative to create the UK's first zero-carbon sustainable suburb is gathering speed in Sutton.

Last week, Hackbridge celebrated an entire week dedicated to helping its residents unite to design a sustainable suburb for the future.

A council spokeswoman said: "Residents tell us they are excited about the vision for Hackbridge and the ambitious scale of that vision."

The week included a series of speed-dating style workshops for residents and businesses to share their ideas on how Sutton can achieve zero-carbon status by 2025.

Councillor Sean Brennan, leader of the council, said: "People living and working in the area are true champions of the environment and it is their ideas, their energy and their enthusiasm that will help transform Hackbridge and ultimately Sutton."

"With the Beddington Zero Energy Development (BedZed), this area has long been a showcase for green living. Hackbridge Week is an opportunity for the community to decide how we make Hackbridge a better place for everyone. We intend to set a precedent of sustainable living."

BedZed in Wallington, developed by the Peabody Trust, is the UK's largest carbon-neutral eco-community.

Create your own special fragrance

Many of us have had the misfortune to be given a bottle of perfume that would in fact be better suited as a freshener for the dog's sleeping basket than as a finishing touch to our morning routine.

Wearing a perfume or aftershave is a very personal experience and a signature for your individuality, which is why Perfect Perfume is such a clever concept.

Set up by Richard Barns, Perfect Perfume offers both women and men the opportunity to create their very own fragrance.

The tailor-made perfume comes about via a detailed questionnaire which is sent to the customer and then analysed to formulate a fragrance based upon the answers given. Richard works closely with each client to ensure they are happy with the process every step of the way.

The concept of Perfect Perfume works well as an original present idea also.

Girlfriends can create a personal scent for their partner and even add a photo of them or their loved one to the bottle!

Alternatively brides and grooms can give a unique wedding favour as an everlasting memory of their day for chosen males and females in the wedding party, or even the entire guest list.

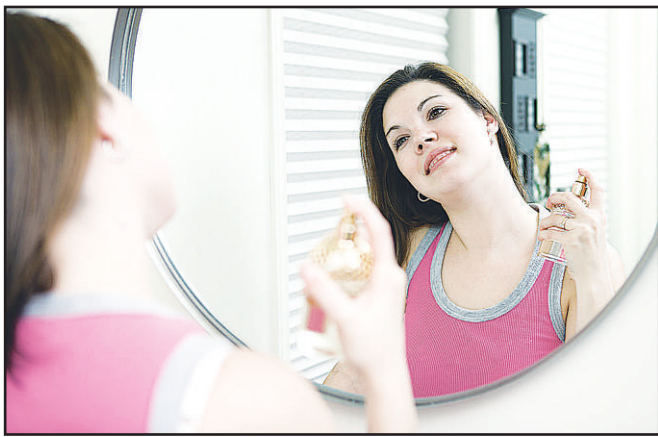

Gift certificates are also available for a surprise perfume that won't offend any noses as the recipient is able to choose the perfect fragrance match themselves.

Richard hopes to involve the local community in his business too, with many other ideas to expand Perfect Perfume in the pipeline. He will be donating prizes for a raffle in aid of St Raphael's Hospice, North Cheam to be drawn in June. A percentage of each sale from Perfect Perfume will be given to the total money raised for the raffle, in addition to prizes donated.

Stop smoking, start living

To mark National No Smoking Day, the local NHS is taking to the streets to help people in Sutton and Merton give up for good

To get free help on how you can get off cigarettes, visit the NHS QUIT STOP bus (pictured) at Mitcham Town Centre on Tuesday 11 March, or at Sutton Town Centre on Wednesday, March 12.

A team of healthcare professionals will be giving free advice on the bus between 10am and 4pm on both days. In addition, you can take part in group talks and activities

Dr Martyn Wake, a local GP and Medical Director of Sutton and Merton Primary Care Trust (PCT), commented: "It's never too late to give up smoking, but it can be very difficult to do this by yourself."

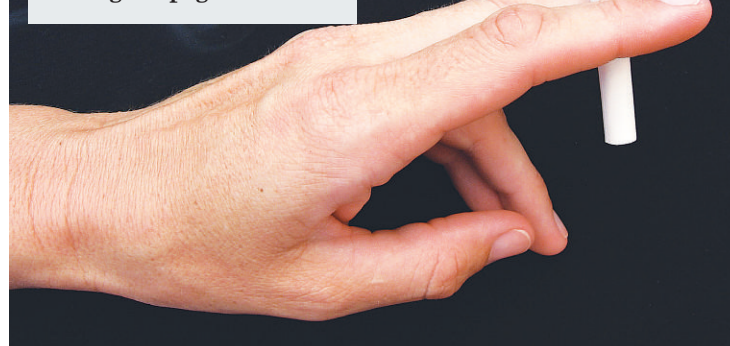

"Research shows that that you are four times more likely to give up smoking by using the NHS free stop smoking service than through willpower alone. By coming to the QUIT STOP bus, you can make the first step to giving up and enjoying a better quality of life."

The local NHS runs a free six week programme for local people in Sutton and Merton.

The service offers one-to-one or group sessions, so you can give up with a friend if you want. Sue Tree, Stop Smoking Service Manager, said: "We have already helped over 10,000 local people to give up smoking. A number of these people had tried before and thought they would never be able to stop – but getting a helping hand has made all the difference."

Sue added that the service saved people money: "By joining the programme, you can get prescriptions from your GP for the stop smoking medications. This means that you only have to pay the prescription price (£6.85) for medication which would cost much more on the high street."

There are 160 trained community advisors on giving up smoking, running free programmes in local GP practices, pharmacies, and other community settings.

Programme for March 11 and 12.

• 11am to noon: advice on keeping your eyes healthy

• 12.30pm to 1.30pm: Demonstration of exercise tips to beat the cravings and stay healthy and fit

• 1.30pm – 2.30pm: Diet advice with free fruit and juice

• 3pm to 4pm: Advice on keeping your mouth healthy, avoiding oral cancer and bad breath from a dentist

New technology for back pain sufferers at A240 Chiropractic Clinic

We are proud to be one of the only clinics in the UK to offer revolutionary computerised percussion treatments to our patients.

The treatment consists of a light percussion on the vertebrae in order to create proper motion to the spine. It is the most advanced technology in chiropractic today, is absolutely painless, extremely efficient and without manipulation (crack and twist) of the spine. Even if you suffer from back or neck problems, stiffness, headaches and migraines, pins and needles or numbness, bad posture or lack of energy, this may be the solution to your problems.

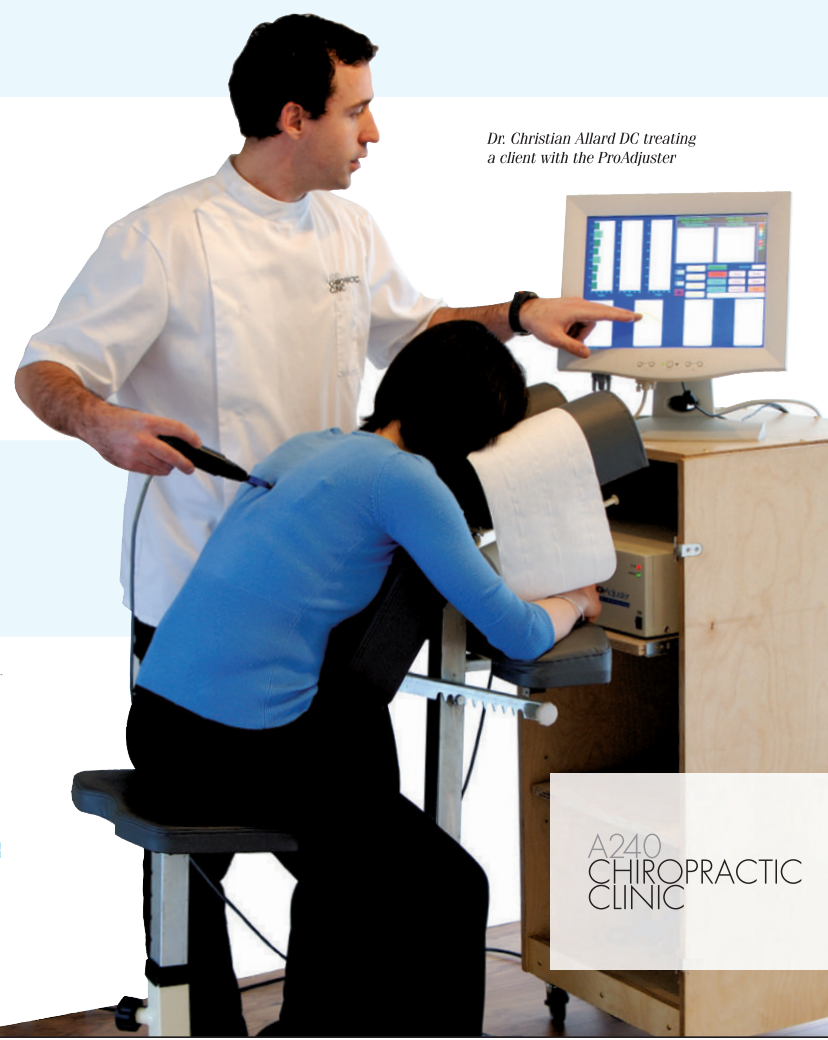

"I suffered chronic pain all over my body after a car accident 10 years ago. I finally, after starting my care with Dr Allard DC started to sleep better, have a lot more energy, mobility and feel a lot better. I would recommend him to anybody."

Mrs Christina Perdiou, Edware

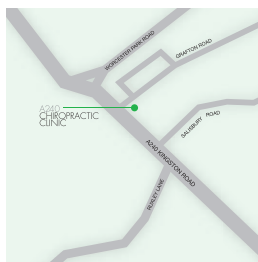

"The pro-adjuster helped me achieve the best results I ever had with my patients in 13 years of practice, thanks to technology helping us move forward."

Ease the pain of a problem back

If you're concerned about your spinal health then now could be the perfect time to contact Back to Health, next to the Sutton station.

Chiropractor Maryam Atkinson explains: "Many people, just like you have tried medication, expensive procedures and temporary relief products but the problems often persist. Some people have been told they just have to manage their pain – in other words there's little hope of improvement!"

"At Back to Health we think differently. Take Elaine for example, one of our friendly staff. Elaine, a mother of three says that she was in "constant pain" and that life was becoming miserable.

"After years of suffering, Elaine came along to the clinic and since receiving chiropractic the change has been, using Elaine's words, 'remarkable!' All that suffering, when chiropractic helped to remove nerve pressure in her spine. In our experience Elaine's case is not unusual at all.

"This month we're offering people in Sutton a complimentary spinal check and taster massage.

"It is the perfect first step to experiencing better spinal health!"

"Call us on 020 8255 1881 for details of these and other special offers throughout February. Chiropractic is a regulated profession in the UK."

Wine and dine

Tapas are the ultimate way of sharing food and the Tapas menu at The Olive Tree is vast and varied, writes Carol Williams.

Take your pick from hot or cold dishes offering vegetarian, meat or fish with side orders, and is enough to satisfy the hungry diner. For those not acquainted with Tapas, it can be something as simple as a bowl of olives to something more hearty, such as the variety of dishes that my friends and I shared.

We tried the deep fried prawns with chilli salsa sauce, deep-fried whitebait seasoned with sea salt and paprika, baked mushrooms topped with garlic and herb crust and The Olive Tree Salad.

Try a starter of potabella mushrooms, stuffed with spinach, garlic butter and mozzarella cheese. Potabellas, like other mushrooms are virtually free of fat and sodium, provide essential fibre and contain no cholesterol. Or how about a main course of fresh fillet of sea bass on a bed of stir fried vegetables and noodles with a champagne and lobster bisque sauce. If you love steak then order the rib-eye cooked with a bear-naise or creamy peppercorn sauce.

And the Andalucian paella could be just what you are looking for if you are pining for those hot sunny days that remind you of the Mediterranean.

Book your table early and get a warm welcome from all of the staff.

When the announcement came that Grange Hill was to be axed a few weeks ago, millions of former children (and many current ones) will have felt a pang not dissimilar to mourning. My own memories of watching it are around the Mr Bronson/Ziggy/Danny Kendal era of the late 80s.

But while many former GH pupils have fallen into obscurity, one person still in the entertainment biz is Francesca Martinez.

Francesca, 29, played Rachel Burns for about four years, in what was probably the first exposure many kids (myself included) had with a person with a disability (she has had cerebral palsy since childhood).

For the past decade, Francesca has been a successful stand-up comedian and she brings her show, In Deep, to Epsom Playhouse this week.

It arrives in Epsom after a three-week residency at one of London's most beautiful small venues and a comedy powerhouse – Hackney Empire.

In it, she espouses strong opinions on politics, religion and popular culture – the big ones.

And, after nearly a decade in the comedy game, it seems Francesca is peaking.

"Another comic once said to me, 'You'll spend years peeling the layers before you can be yourself.' And that is 100 per cent true. The more comfortable you are with yourself, the more honest you can be. This is my honest show.

"For years, I didn't even acknowledge that having cerebral palsy affected me or my work, it drove me on as I wanted to compete with everyone.

"If anything, I did more shows than most but I got chronic fatigue and then I thought, hang on a minute, I do have CP, I need to accept that. It took me years but life is much better because of it.

"I have jokes about how I think I'm not disabled, just crap at being able-bodied."

Outside the UK, Francesca has enjoyed top reviews at the Edinburgh and Montreal Just For Laughs Festival and is on a shortlist of comics to return to Canada this year.

A more unexpected source of work came from the king of political correctness, Ken Livingstone: "I got a letter from him asking if I would be one of the people to walk the [Beijing] Olympic torch through London.

"Of all the people to walk 250 metres, you don't ask me and I can't hold a match let alone a bloody torch!

"I'm sure I've ticked a box for him somewhere but I said yes as I thought it would be fun. I have asked my boyfriend if he would hold the torch for me."

COMEDY: Francesca Martinez, Epsom Playhouse

Paul Fleckney

The demise of Grange Hill is described by Francesca as "very sad, the end of an era", but fans can get their fix, if they're eagle-eyed enough.

She still hangs out with Aidan Davies (Arnie), Kevin Bishop (Sam) and Rochelle Gadd (Dill) and they still look the same as they did in that old school uniform.

Hitting a high note

This Friday, Epsom Playhouse will stage a tribute to Pavarotti, arguably the world's greatest opera singer who died last September.

Pure Pavarotti is a celebration in words and music of this amazing career and features a team of singers from the world-famous Royal Opera House, Covent Garden.

Supported by the Schomberg String Quartet and pianoforte, Pure Pavarotti transports audiences from the Italian tenor's humble beginnings in Modena to the dazzling heights of international stardom as one of the Three Tenors. With selections from Rigoletto, Tosca, Pagliacci, Madame Butterfly and La Bohème among others, the show will be an operatic feast.

Luciano Pavarotti achieved worldwide fame in the mid-1970s and was renowned for the brilliance and beauty of his tone.

Popular stardom came at the 1990 World Cup in Italy with the performances of Turnadot's Nessun Dorma and as one of The Three Tenors in their famed first concert held on the eve of the final match of the tournament (repeated at later World Cups).

Pavarotti sang together with fellow star tenors Plácido Domingo and José Carreras and brought to the much wider audience hits previously confined to the opera world.

Nils Solberg

Carshalton Jazz Club has been pulling in some outstanding jazz outfits in 2008 and last week's special gig at Banstead Community Hall, featuring Rod Mason and His Hot Five, was not the last of it.

This week, the club returns to its more familiar surroundings of Charles Cryer Theatre, with top swing band the Martin Litton-Nils Solberg Rhythm Kings taking to the stage. They are also joined by special guest singer Val Wiseman.

Mike and Nils have been working together for more than 30 years (or "absolutely yonks", as Nils puts it) and played last week at the Tate Modern.

And they have assembled some of the UK's best swing jazzers around for their Rhythm Kings band. The line-up is Trevor Whiting on assorted reeds, Mike Piggott bowing the violin, Pete Morgan exploring his bass, and skinsman Rod Brown.

Of guest throat Val, Nils says: "She is recognised as one of the top vocalists in this country and has been around for years and years. She is influenced by singers like Anita O'Day and Billie Holiday, but is entirely her own self. She is definitely one of the best around."

"Funnily enough, she is about to embark on a Duke Ellington show and half of the guys in her band are in this band as well."

Nils has pretty impressive pedigree as well, having long associated with jazz violinists such as the late maestro Johnny van Derrick and Nigel Kennedy.

His collaboration with the

JAZZ: Martin Litton-Nils Soberg Rhythm Kings, Carshalton Jazz Club

Paul Fleckney

award-winning vocalist Clare Teal (as featured in last week's Guardian) resulted in her acclaimed album That's The Way It Is. He also has previous with Gary Potter – one of jazz's most impressive guitarists – and they played together for years at the Hot Club of London.

And the most memorable part of his career?

"I think it has to be touring with Brian Ferry on his world tour," Nils says. "It really showed me how the other half lives – living in five-star hotels is hardly the lot of a working jazz musician!"

"It was a lot of fun. For 18 months we toured America, Europe, South Africa, and it was satisfying in a completely different way to what I am used to. You are playing on huge stages with absolutely no contact with the audience, you can't even see them."

"It is nice to be in a small club where you can connect, so in a way it is more satisfying playing the Charles Cryer than playing Wembley."

Martin Litton-Nils Solberg Rhythm Kings; Charles Cryer Theatre, 39 High Street, Carshalton. March 11, 8pm, £9/£8/£4, call David Burr on 020 8647 2114.

Music to the ears

Musical fans should book a date with Mayhem Musical Theatre Company in March, for their springtime musical revue Salute To Stage And Screen.

Inspired by a recent revival in musical movies, the creative team of Ben Z Fuiava and Jon Wade has created a collection of songs that takes the audience on a journey through time, charting the watershed moments from the silver screen.

From silent movies, through the Wizard Of Oz and the Witches of Eastwick to 2008's Sweeney Todd, each song marks a milestone in the evolution of musical movies. Plus Mayhem's ensemble of performers will be serving up classics such as Singin' in the Rain, Moon River and Somewhere Over The Rainbow, alongside songs from modern West End musicals.

As well as offering a great night's entertainment, Mayhem is hoping the show will raise much-needed funds.

Chairwoman Elinor Morgan Jones says: "Arts funding is obviously a topical issue and many small groups, like us, are faced with the spiralling costs of staging amateur theatre productions. We hope the community can enjoy and support Salute To Stage And Screen, so we can continue to provide high-quality theatre in the area."

A very special organisation

More than 32,000 people from all over the world have been VSO volunteers since 1958. Working in countries from Bangladesh to Zambia volunteers have changed their lives and made a real difference to thousands of others.

Judith Brodie, director of VSO UK says: "VSO believes that people can make a real difference to other people and so we focus on linking people together to share skills and experience to learn from each other.

"There is so much to gain from volunteering with VSO, not only the experience of living in a different country, but also an insight into how the

For 50 years people from the UK have been helping poor communities overseas through international development charity VSO. In its 50th anniversary year VSO is challenging more people to volunteer and discover what their skills could do to help tackle global poverty world operates. Volunteering is a two-way process, so as well as the volunteers going to share their skills they also learn a lot too. Coming back to the UK volunteers can share what they've learnt and so bring their two communities together."

Fast Facts about VSO

- VSO is an international development charity that works through skilled professional volunteers in 34 countries mostly in Africa and Asia.
- Since 1958 VSO has sent over 32,000 people to share their skills with some of the poorest communities in the world.

- VSO recruits volunteers not only from the UK but also Canada, India, Ireland, Netherlands, Kenya, Philippines, and Uganda.

- Thirty one per cent of VSO volunteers are over 50, and the average age of VSO volunteers is 41.

- VSO recruits volunteers with skills and experience in education, health, business and management, engineering and natural resources.

- VSO also has two programmes for people aged 18-25, Youth for Development and Global Xchange.

What they say about VSO

"VSO is a great organisation because it brings together the skills and talents of professionals and shares them with other individuals for the betterment of both people."

Jonathan Dimpleby, broadcaster and VSO President

"I am passionate about VSO and the work its volunteers do throughout the developing world. Indeed my time as a volunteer in the late 60s has influenced my life and my career ever since, and I know the long-term impact which volunteers bring to the communities where they live and work."

Jon Snow, broadcaster and journalist

"I've learnt more than I've been able to give and it's an experience that will stay with me for my lifetime. Volunteering certainly affected my outlook and the way I live here. So I'd say that the contribution is not just limited to the two years overseas."

Anne Sanderson, VSO occupational therapist volunteer, Malawi.

"When I was a student I was taught by VSO volunteers. Volunteers leave a lasting memory. They equip people with skills so when they leave the skills remain here. We learn from them and they learn from us - it's a shared endeavour."

Rose Kaath, Education Officer,

Upper West Ghana
There are many ways to change the world...find yours

Judith Brodie continued: "Volunteering is only one of the ways to get involved with VSO's work. We also run campaigns and exciting events and fundraising activities, that all contribute to VSO's goal to fight poverty in developing countries. There will be events all over the UK during 2008 to celebrate VSO's anniversary, we want people to come along and see what VSO can do for you."

In March VSO will be celebrating its anniversary with three events in Edinburgh, Bristol and London.

Club A2Z

Sutton French Circle

Viva la France: If you like all things French, why not join Sutton French Circle

French bred

Sutton French Circle was formed in 1972 and is designed to bring together francophiles and the French who have moved to Britain and/or married an English citizen. So anybody who has a penchant for French culture, literature, language, food, politics or just the people, will find something of interest.

Parlez-vous francais

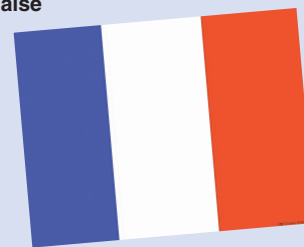

You will need a pretty solid grasp of French to join, simply because the club meetings are conducted in French. Unlike other affiliated clubs, there is no teaching or testing of members' French so you can decide if you feel your French is up to it.

Fraternite

There are about 20 members in the Sutton branch (you don't have to join to attend the club) and it is affiliated to Alliance Francaise de Londres (formed in the 19th century), which in turn is subsidised by the French Government. So, in a way, President Sarkozy is throwing Euros at Sutton's social scene as we speak. Formidable!

When and where

The club meets at the SCOLA once a month – the next date is March 14, 7.30pm-9.30pm. AFP supplies a list of speakers and topics for the year and the Sutton branch chooses what it likes. The guest speakers this year have spoken on Egyptology and cafés and bistros in France. After the meeting, some members nip to a local bar for une petite boisson.

Channel-hopping

Extra social activities are arranged, such as a Christmas dinner, a Bastille Day meal and a spring lunch (which is on May 2 this year). In past years, a short trip to France has been arranged (not a booze cruise), and this is likely to return next year.

C'est combien?

You annual membership fee is £20 but, if you just want to come along one evening, it is £3. There are reductions for students, who are always welcome to supplement their school or college classes.

TRAIN AS A HOME INSPECTOR

Up to 2 million properties being sold every year now need Home Information Packs which must include an Energy Assessment carried out by a newly trained Home Inspector or Energy Assessor. Thousands more of these new professionals will be needed later this year for the rental sector when Government requires around 1.6 million properties being let in the first year to also have Energy Assessments.

This creates new and interesting career opportunities and we require people to train now as Home Inspectors in their spare time. No previous surveying experience is required.

Thousands more new Home Inspectors will also be needed if Government confirm Packs must include a currently optional Home Condition Report.

Current fee earning expectations are £60 to £80 for Energy Assessments and £200 to £300 for Home Condition Reports with up to 15 Assessments or 6 Reports estimated to be carried out in a week, depending on size of properties and supply.

Applicants should apply now for a limited number of training places at the Government's ABBE approved centres of Home Inspector Training near London and in Bristol, Birmingham and Manchester. (4-night accommodation package advice if required.) The Course consists mainly of 7 separately bookable one-week modules, taken over up to 10 months, if this long is needed, and is designed to enable most people to train around their current commitments.

On qualifying you are awarded the Government's ABBE Home Inspector Diploma and are able to carry out Assessments and Reports on your own, for other Pack Providers or, depending on the market share gained, for our own in-house Pack Provider in return for receiving a course subsidy. Once qualified, additional courses with qualifications now being researched may be available to carry out property valuations, Energy Assessments for commercial properties and flood and fire risk assessments to provide additional income streams.

Volvo on the move with Motability

Squire Furneaux, the local Volvo dealer group, has enjoyed a long-standing partnership with Motability, supplying and servicing cars for disabled people who purchase or contract hire a new Volvo through the Motability Scheme.

Currently, Motability customers can drive away in a fabulous, brand new Volvo S40 1.6S saloon car with a zero advance payment through the contract hire scheme. Other Volvo models are available with a low advance payment, and cash paying Motability customers can take advantage of special Volvo discounts on the whole range.

Motability is the leading car scheme for disabled people in the UK, enabling disabled people to obtain a car, powered wheelchair or scooter simply by using their government funded mobility allowances. In the UK, over 1.7 million disabled people receive for the Higher Rate Mobility Component of Disability Living Allowance and over 16,000 receive for the War Pensioners' Mobility Supplement.

Customers exchange their allowance for a worry-free mobility package, including a car, powered wheelchair or scooter, insurance, servicing, tyres, breakdown cover plus adaptations such as hand controls and easier door access.

Today, the Scheme purchases over 5% of all new cars, powered wheelchairs and scooters sold in the UK, via a national network of some 4,500 Motability dealers, including Squire Furneaux at Leatherhead. Motability dealers are stringently vetted to ensure they provide parking spaces and easy access for disabled customers, as well as excellent levels of service.

At Squire Furneaux, Motability-trained specialists help customers to choose the Volvo that best suits their needs and guide them through the Motability Scheme process.

We asked Malcolm Prior, Sales Manager at Squire Furneaux Leatherhead, what were the key factors in the service they offer? "Motability customers like our relaxed style, comfortable showroom and the hassle-free way we handle the Scheme on their behalf", commented Malcolm, "and the zero advance rental on the S40 1.6 S has meant that a lot more customers are choosing Volvo than ever before!"

For more details about Volvo cars on the Motability Scheme, contact Squire Furneaux Leatherhead on 01372 371900 and for information about Motability itself, visit their website: www.motability.co.uk

NEW 2008 Chrysler Grand Voyager

The new seven-seat Chrysler Grand Voyager has an all-new exterior and interior design plus an updated range of petrol and diesel engines and boasts more than 30 new features which will help make the new 2008 model the ultimate family car. New features include heated first and second row seats; rear-view interior conversation mirror; a removable torch in the rear quarter panel; electric windows in the power sliding second-row doors; movable LED reading lamps and automatic three-zone climate control for all passengers.

To keep passengers entertained an optional dual-DVD system with two screens is available so second-row passengers can play a game or watch a different film to those in the third row while the MyGIG infotainment system offers MP3 player compatibility, a touch screen and voice-controlled navigation system as well being able to store up to approximately 1600 songs on an integrated 20GB hard drive.

Passenger safety is also well catered for. Traction control and ESP, tyre-pressure monitoring, front and all-row side-curtain airbags, as well as seven full-size seats with fixings for three Isofix child seats all come as standard across the range.

Simon Elliott, Managing Director of Chrysler UK Ltd, said: "The Grand Voyager is a firm favourite in the UK and the new model has all the right ingredients to make it the most successful Chrysler ever.

"Thousands of families already enjoy the benefits of the Stow 'n Go seating system and as yet none of our competitors have been able to answer the one question that all MPV drivers have - 'where do I put the seats when I don't need them?'"

The Stow 'n Go seating and storage system means the Grand Voyager can be transformed from a seven-passenger people carrier to a two-person cargo vehicle in less than 30 seconds. And because all of the seats store in the floor you don't have to struggle to pull the seats out or find space in the garage to store them.

Simon Elliott added: "Offering the new vehicle, with all its features, refinements and an excellent diesel engine is only half the story. The new Chrysler MPV offers excellent value for money with prices starting from £25,995 - the same price as the previous generation model.

"Chrysler will also be offering the Swivel 'n Go seating as an option for the first time on the Grand Voyager Limited. This new seating system will help make the Grand Voyager the ultimate family vehicle!"

The Swivel 'n Go seat system features second-row covered floor storage bins and second-row quad seats that swivel 180 degrees to face rearward for conversational seating. A removable table fits between the second and third rows. A one-touch power-stowing third-row seat with power recline can be adjusted into four different positions with a single push of a button.

The Chrysler Grand Voyager will be available with six-speed automatic transmission and either a 3.8-litre V-6 engine that produces 142 kW (193 hp DIN) at 5,200 rpm and 305 Nm (230 lb.-ft.) of torque at 4,000 rpm, or a 2.8-litre turbo diesel engine that produces 120 kW (163 hp DIN) at 3,800 rpm and 360 Nm (266 lb.-ft.) of torque at 1800 rpm.

Initial showroom models are expected to arrive with Epsom Motor Company Ltd in March with pre sold units arriving shortly after in early April. Should you wish to be one of the very customers in the UK to own this ultimate family car please call 01372 739900 for further details.

Craig out to prove a point

by STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

Sutton's Craig Jones is out to prove a few people wrong, including his dad, when he runs next month's London Marathon.

The 22-year-old suffers from genetic disorder cystic fibrosis and has lived with the condition since he was three weeks old.

The condition affects the respiratory system, among other things, which sees some acute sufferers facing an average life expectancy of 31 and needing a lung transplant.

Jones, who is using the project as part of a physiotherapy regime designed to combat the disorder's effect, insists his lot is not as bad as others.

Even his dad, who has also completed the marathon in aid of the charity, mistakenly thought the disease would affect his walking when he was diagnosed.

And Jones reckons going the distance in under four hours 30 minutes would be a fitting way to lay a few misconceptions to rest.

"It would probably be one of the best days of my life if I were to compete it," he said.

"When I first floated the idea, my mates and a lot of other people said 'yeah, whatever'. It would be incredible to prove people wrong.

"When I was first diagnosed, my dad asked the doctors if I would be able to walk. He had no idea what CF was.

"It can be quite frustrating because people immediately think the worst when you mention the words.

"It is not as bad for me, but I am doing this for the people who are on hospital wings waiting for a new life."

Jones is a qualified youth football referee – having once taken charge of an U12 Surrey Cup final – but three years of relative inactivity while at university, made the return to full fitness even harder.

Preparation for the race, through which he hopes to raise at least £2,000 for charity, has taken a little extra planning. But it means the former Greenshaw School student feels the best he has for three years.

"I haven't really done much since I was 19 and, slowly, my lungs have got worse and I have started coughing more," he added.

"Inactivity can see the condition worsen but, so far, my breathing has improved and, hopefully, this will just mean it keeps getting better and better."

And, in the process, Jones hopes to better the amount his dad collected.

"I am not sure how much he made because I was only young, but it is a big incentive to go beyond £2,000," he added.

Pawel claims another win

Runners from South London Harriers dominated the 40th running of the Banstead Woods 5km time trial on Saturday morning.

Pawel Bal led a 1-2-3 from the club by winning for the second successive week in 16 minutes 58 seconds, finishing 25 seconds clear of over-45 veteran Chris Phelan, with Neil Bardskey (17:33) third.

Teenager Isabel Brinsden of Epsom & Ewell Harriers won the women's event for the second time (18:33) ahead of South London Harriers' Beckie Woodland (20:09) and over-45 veteran Ange Norris of Dulwich Runners (21:25).

Graham Hewett, who has provided volunteer help with results processing and photography at the event, finished 10th at his final event before moving to the Lake District to work for the Youth Hostel Association.

To mark the occasion, Graham was presented with a copy of Wainwright's Pictorial Guide to the Eastern Fells of the Lake District.

Epsom Allsorts Sue Esslemont won this week's Sweatshop of Teddington shoe prize.

Sue has completed 24 time trials, volunteered on many occasions and has taken 4:29 off her time since the start of the event.

Isabel leads Surrey team

by TOM POLLAK

sports@london.newsquest.co.uk

Epsom's Isabel Brinsden led Surrey to their only team victory in the Southern Schools inter-counties cross country match at Paddock Wood, Kent.

County champion Brinsden (pictured below), who goes to Rosebery School, Epsom, won the intermediate girls' race in 16 minutes 36 seconds after a close battle with Caterham School's Loulou Rowlands, who was just one second behind.

Ciara Dullaghan (All Hallows, Farnham) was third in 17:03.

Grace O'Leary of Wallington Girls completed the Surrey team, finishing 16th in 18:29.

Sutton schoolboy Daniel Sellman (Wilson's School) won the senior boys' race in 20:19 in the absence of the leading two runners in the county championship, Josh Gorecki (Howard of Effingham) and Joe Morwood (RGS, Guildford).

He led Surrey to third team place behind Essex and Kent.

Wallington High's Sophie Cowper, winner of the senior girls' county title at Reigate in January, found the going tough at Paddock Wood, finishing 12th in 21:15.

Emily Hallett from Nonsuch High School in Sutton was 25th in 22:14.

Epsom College student Joe Toomey, runner-up in the county championship, was Surrey's third finisher in the intermediate boys' in 18:10.

Stefan Richards (Glyn Technology College), due to run alongside Toomey in Liverpool, did not race.

Hazel eyes a shake up at Tanners

by SIMON FITZJOHN

sfitzjohn@london.newsquest.co.uk

Leatherhead boss Ian Hazel admitted he is looking to shake things up as the Tanners' season threatens to drift to a mid-table conclusion.

Hazel was livid after seeing his side concede a last-minute equaliser in a 1-1 draw at Croydon Athletic on Saturday that saw them remain in 14th place in Ryman Division One South.

And the Tanners boss was quick to slam his underperforming side.

Hazel said: "I put the blame on our keeper Aaron France.

"He should have saved it – it is as simple as that and I told him after the game.

"It was very disappointing as that was the only shot they had all game."

Leatherhead took the lead courtesy of a Dave Stevens penalty, but they were unable to build on it despite Croydon being reduced to 10 men.

And for Hazel, Saturday's frustration highlighted the areas he is looking to improve ahead of next season.

He added: "We need to be a lot more ruthless defensively.

"We are looking at players at the moment to get us to that point.

"At present I admit we are a mid-table team, but next season I want to be challenging."

Hazel plans a major recruitment drive during the summer as he looks to spearhead a promotion assault next season.

And he revealed players would be playing for their places in his Fetcham Grove revolution.

Hazel added: "We have nine games to go and these games will tell me a lot about the players.

"We have to use these games as a base for next season and I will be experimenting.

"I just want to make sure the players are looking to win every game."

The Tanners host Burgess Hill Town on Saturday.

He led the way as Leatherhead swimmers took 14 gold, 15 silver and nine bronze medals in the competition.

Lift me up: Old Glyns in action against Battersea

Old Glyns survive scare

Old Glynionians survived a tense climax of their home match against Battersea Ironsides to maintain their 100 per cent league record with a 13-7 victory.

Glyns dominated the first half, with strong forward play from Freddie Coventry and Harrison May allowing stand off Liam Burns to run with freedom.

They were rewarded when Burns sent winger Ben

Essex over in the corner.

Bill Turner added another try as Glyns claimed a 13-0 half-time lead.

But Glyns failed to put the game out of reach and a converted try from the visitors reduced the arrears to six points with 15 minutes left.

However, Genair Otoo made some important tackles as Glyns held on.

Charlotte Hobbs took gold in the girls' U15 100m backstroke. Other medalists: Silver: Chris Ashton (5), Kristy Robertson (2), Shahira Ishak (2), Chloe Bean. Bronze: Chris Ashton, Chloe Bean, Josh McDonough, Andrew Norman, Charlotte Harman, Nicola Cooke.

Knights' challenge

by STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

Sutton & Epsom head coach Martin Knights has challenged his side to prove they can compete with the best in London Division One by beating leaders Richmond on Sunday.

Knights's men pushed third placed Shelford close but were edged out 22-20 in a bruising encounter last week ahead of this weekend's trip to the Athletic Ground.

Richmond, who are six points clear of the chasing pack with four games to go, could seal the title with a win on Saturday after beating Bishop's Stortford 27-6.

Sutton play their west London rivals again on March 15 in the Surrey Cup semi-finals – this time at home – and will be looking to avenge their 18-6 defeat in last year's final.

But Knights, who once coached Richmond to glory in the competition, insists a win in the league would give him more pleasure than a one-off cup triumph.

"The cup is a bonus but the league shows longevity and is a better guide to your performance over a long period of time," he said.

"There are no weakened teams for a league game and, after Saturday, we need to show people we can play at this level and compete with the big boys of this league."

Skipper James Clarke is ruled out of the clash after limping off during the weekend's defeat, which saw Sutton field five front row players in the closing stages of the match due to injuries.

And teacher Knights, who missed the match watching his school team St Benedicts reach

Epsom complete hat-trick

by CORINNE MUNFORD

sports@london.newsquest.co.uk

In their first outing of the season on Sunday, Epsom College's rugby squad won the Sussex Schools U18 Open Sevens Tournament at Christ's Hospital School for the third year running.

After seeing off Eastbourne, Bridgend College and Sutton Valence at the group stage, Epsom beat St John's after extra time in the quarter-final and Whitgift in the semi-final.

With international referee Wayne Barnes officiating, the final against Cranleigh was a tense affair.

After Epsom raced to a 19-0 lead at half-time, Cranleigh came back strongly and were winning 24-19 with less than a minute to go, before a score in the last play took the game into extra time. Epsom captain George Lowe, who was named player of the tournament, scored the vital try in overtime to give Epsom victory.

Epsom's second team also did well after being promoted to the main competition where one of the teams pulled out.

Playing against other schools' first teams, Epsom seconds finished third in their group and then went on to beat St Paul's, Wimbledon College and Abingdon to win the shield competition.

On the run: Sutton's Bryan Milne in action against Shelford the final of the Daily Mail U18 Cup with a 19-6 win over Barnard Castle School, could not hide his disappointment.

"By all accounts, we should have won. We gave them too much of a start and couldn't haul it back," he added.

"They capitalised on a slow start and made us pay for it, which was disappointing."

Sanger wins for Harriers

Epsom & Ewell Harriers filled two of the top three individual places in the final Sweatshop Surrey cross country league Division Two match in Croydon's Lloyd Park but failed to feature in the team promotion battle.

Instead, Dorking & Mole Valley secured the second spot alongside Stragglers.

Those two take the place of Wimbledon Windmillers and Guildford & Godalming in the top flight next season.

Epsom's Phil Sanger led the field home in 29 minutes 41 seconds after a close battle with Dorking's Nick Hodges.

Epsom clubmate Will Clark was third in 29:49.

Match result: 1 Stragglers 230; 2 Dorking and Mole Valley 252; 3 Dulwich Runners 308; 4 Striders of Croydon 402; 5 Kingston and Polytechnic 543; 6 Epsom and Ewell Harriers 544; 7 West 4 Harriers 575; 8 Elmbridge Road Runners 577; 9 Sutton Runners 664.

Final standings: 1 Stragglers 1189; 2 Dorking and Mole Valley 1258; 3 Dulwich Runners 1289; 4 Epsom and Ewell Harriers 1855; 5 Elmbridge Road Runners 1883; 6 Striders of Croydon 1912; 7 Kingston and Polytechnic 2013; 8 West 4 Harriers 2348; 9 Sutton Runners 2633.

Joy for Epsom

Epsom & Ewell maintained their recent run of good form with a 2-1 come-from-behind win over visiting Cobham on Saturday.

Still on a high after their battling draw at runaway leaders Merstham last weekend, Epsom were stunned when the struggling away side took a first-half lead.

But the hosts bounced back with goals from Adam Pero and a Kyle Hough penalty to claim all three points.

This Saturday will present another tough test for Epsom, when they travel to second-placed Guildford City.

Alex eyes Paralympic spot

by KARENZA MORTON

sports@london.newsquest.co.uk

Epsom-based sailor Alex Rickham and her partner Niki Birrell have boosted their chances of selection for the Beijing 2008 Paralympic Games.

The pair clinched bronze in the SKUD class at the US Disabled Open Midwinters in St Petersburg, USA, only their second regatta together.

Rickham, 26, and 21-year-old Birrell, from Knutsford in Cheshire, joined forces in the two-person Paralympic keelboat class and raced their first event - part of the British selection trials for the Paralympic Games - at the Rolex Miami Olympic Classes Regatta in January.

They finished fifth in Miami but, more crucially in terms of putting them in the driving seat for the sole British SKUD berth for Beijing, they finished ahead of their rivals for selection, Allan Smith and Jackie Gay.

Now, with a Midwinters bronze medal around their necks, the Skandia Team GBR pair will be hoping to have earned their call for the Paralympic Regatta, which gets under way in Qingdao in China on May 8.

Birrell previously sailed in the Olympic 470 class with his brother Christian before making the switch to the 2.4m single-handed Paralympic class last summer.

He raced at the IFDS World Disabled Championships in Rochester, USA, in September.

But competition for single-handed Paralympic places was fierce, with Helena Lucas and Megan Pascoe already battling it out for British honours.

So Birrell joined Rickham, an environmental scientist who works for BP Sunbury, in the two-person SKUD, which will make its Paralympic debut in Qingdao.

British sailing's Paralympic hopefuls are expected to learn later this month whether they have been officially selected for the Games.

FOOTBALL: Banstead Athletic's inconsistent form continued when they suffered a 4-1 hammering at mid-table Bedfont Green on Saturday. Athletic never managed to get a foothold in the game and were soundly beaten, with only Michael Corbett's late consolation to show for their efforts. Banstead's form since Christmas has seen them win four and lose six of their 10 games. Struggling Sandhurst Town visit Merland Rise on Saturday.
